Project implementation services- Child protection

January 2024 to October 2024

ECPAT International – Project MUKTI South Asia

ORGANISATIONAL CONTEXT

ECPAT International is a global network of organisations working together for the elimination of the sexual exploitation of children in all its manifestations i.e. exploitation of children in prostitution, online child sexual exploitation, sale and trafficking of children for sexual purposes, sexual exploitation of children in travel and tourism and some forms of child, early and forced marriage. The ECPAT Network currently consists of 126 members working at national and local levels in 104 countries. The ECPAT Secretariat coordinates the global work of ECPAT and is based in Bangkok, Thailand.

MUKTI SOUTH ASIA PROJECT

With funding from the U.S. Department of State’s Office to Monitor and Combat Trafficking in Persons, a cohort of organisations, led by ECPAT Luxembourg is implementing the MUKTI South Asia project in India, Bangladesh, and Nepal. The project aims to strengthen anti-trafficking responses by addressing critical shortcomings in protection for victims of child trafficking for sexual purposes. The project engages with a variety of different entities and organisations – including government, civil society, frontline workers, etc. - at multiple levels to strengthen the capacities and knowledge to coordinate efficiently to protect and care for survivors of trafficking of children for sexual purposes.

In the context of the Mukti South Asia project, ECPAT International, as one of the project partners, aims to contribute to improved care of survivors of trafficking for sexual purposes during childhood through trauma-informed practices building on the lived experiences of survivors and the realities of service providers in the target countries.

ECPAT International will be responsible for primary research aimed at assessing the quality, availability and usefulness of support services for victims and survivors of trafficking of children for sexual purposes. The methodologies to be used draw from ECPAT’s solid research experience of surveying frontline workers and conducting carefully designed conversations with young people who have experienced sexual exploitation and abuse. Information collected from survivors and frontline workers are aimed at informing services’ planning and provision. Promoting the voices and perspectives of victims of sexual exploitation is also a strategic objective of ECPAT International and a cross-cutting issue.

OBJECTIVES OF THE CONSULTANCY

ECPAT International is seeking qualified three-member team of individuals to implement qualitative and quantitative research activities and provide overall administrative and logistical support for the implementation of the project in India (exact 3 locations to be agreed and selected).

Specific activities include:

Kick-off and preparation

- Participate in a workshop organized by ECPAT International to discuss project planning; receive training on the overall project methodology; define child safeguarding frameworks and standards for the project; and support in the contextualization and adaptation of the methodology itself;
- Participate in online coordination calls with the ECPAT International team.

Conversations with survivors

- In collaboration with ECPAT International, Mukti South Asia project partners and ECPAT member organizations in the country, establish partnerships with support services working with survivors of child trafficking for sexual purposes in order to generate engagement and support the identification of the participants to the conversations;
- Identify participants and conduct a total of 20 conversations per location (3) with young people (16-24 years) who have experienced trafficking for sexual purposes in childhood (i.e. before 18 years of age). The conversations approach includes a pre-meeting to ensure informed consent and safeguarding;
- Write a report that synthesizes the results, main findings and recommendations from the survivors (in English or local language)
- Support the logistics for the organization of a workshop (or one-on-one brief meetings if preferred by survivors) to present consolidated and anonymized findings to survivors

Please note that the tools and methodology for conducting the conversations will be provided by ECPAT International. The contracted entity will not have to design the tools but is expected to work with ECPAT International to contextualize them as needed.

Survey with frontline workers

- Review, test and pilot online survey developed by ECPAT International;
- Identify participants and administer survey for a minimum of 50 frontline workers per location (3). These may include child protection professionals (social workers, psychologists) and para-professionals from a range of services including shelters, drop in centers, outreach work, community-based organizations, but also workers from the health, justice and law enforcement, education and others based on contextualization of the methodology;
- Review summary of survey findings produced by ECPAT International.

Please note that the survey will be administered through an online platform to be used directly by participants, but the survey will be introduced and set up face-to-face or remotely for each individual participant by the contracted entity in each country with the intention of both motivating participation and allowing for clarifications and explanations to participants when needed.

Please note that the tools and methodology for the administration of the survey will be provided by ECPAT International. The contracted entity will not have to design the tools but is expected to work with ECPAT International to contextualize them as needed. Please note that the analysis of collected data will be conducted directly by ECPAT International.

Validation and dissemination

Depending on quality of delivered activities, projects’ circumstances, etc. the contract might be further extended, upon mutual agreement, for the provision of logistical support for the organization of a final workshop with multi-stakeholders to present and reflect on the consolidated and anonymized findings of the research activities mentioned above. This additional activity, if confirmed, will be object of an addendum to the signed agreement.
